

Global Environmental Governance: Reflecting on the Past, Moving into the Future

6.30-8pm, Thursday 2nd July

Room 290 (Ground Floor)

Université de Genève - Uni Mail, Bvd du Pont-d'Arve 40, 1205 Genève¹

Duke University, the University of Geneva and the Global Environmental Governance (GEG) Project, a joint initiative of Yale University and the College of William & Mary, invite you to a high-level panel on the future of international environment governance. The Panel will bring to the Geneva community the conclusions of the Global Environmental Governance Forum: Reflecting on the Past, Moving into the Future – an initiative of the GEG Project taking place on June 28-July 2.

After a historic event connecting several generations of environmental leaders, distinguished panellists will discuss their opinions on three core questions:

1. What has and hasn't worked in global environmental governance, and why?
2. How can the core contemporary challenges be addressed?
3. How can momentum for action be created?

Panellists

Ambassador Lumumba Di-Aping (chair of the G77 and deputy permanent representative of Sudan to the UN)

Maria Ivanova, Director of the Global Environmental Governance Project and Professor at the College of William and Mary

Ambassador John McDonald (former US foreign service officer and former Deputy Director General of ILO)

John Scanlon, (Principal adviser to Achim Steiner – Executive Director of UNEP)

Dr. Mostafa Tolba (Executive Director of UNEP 1975-1992)

Moderated by Maria Ivanova, Professor at the College of William and Mary and Laurence Boisson de Chazournes, Professor at the Faculty of Law, University of Geneva

The panel event will provide an opportunity for discussion and debate to follow up on the Global Environmental Governance Forum that will be held in Glion, Switzerland earlier in the week.² The panel members, each of whom will have participated in the forum, will draw on their combined experiences to discuss the institutions and policies that will be needed to meet the environmental challenges of tomorrow. Short presentations will be followed by open discussion. All are welcome.

¹ Stop "Uni-Mail" on tram route no. 15 (5 stops from Geneva's main railway station, "Gare Cornavin") and on bus routes no. 1 and no. 32. Off-street paid parking available in the Uni Mail building.

² Please note that participation in the Global Environmental Governance Forum in Glion is by invitation only. For more information, please see www.environmentalgovernance.org.